The Content Engine

Body Recode - The Content Engine

Status: v1.0 - 2026-07-19. The operating system for @body_recode_content. Sits under the consumer marketing strategy and replaces "post 5x a week and hope." Why this exists: engagement was low because the content taught. Teaching earns respect and gets scrolled past. This engine is built to do the one thing the whole brand is about - prove, in public, that you can read a person the industry gave up on.

01 1. The one shift

Stop teaching. Start reading.

Information travels in the head. Self-recognition travels in the gut, and the gut taps the comment button. Every post in this engine does one of three things: makes someone feel seen, proves you can read them, or gives them a result about themselves. If a post only explains a concept, it doesn't ship.

02 2. Three writing rules (non-negotiable)

1. Scenarios over concepts. A specific person in a specific moment, not a principle. "You're 42, training five mornings, cut the wine, and the scale hasn't moved in eight months" beats "your body may be depleted" every time.
 2. Their words, not ours. Open with the exact phrases people write in their scorecard answers and DMs. Sound like the voice already in their head. Build a swipe file of real lines and pull from it.
 3. Split the job. Some posts are built to earn comments and saves (pure value, end on a question, no link). Others drive the click (scorecard). Never ask one post to do both - that's why they land neither right now.

03 3. Signature formats (the repeatable shows)

Named, ownable formats. Each is a format we run again and again until the audience knows it on sight.

FORMAT	WHAT IT IS	ITS JOB	BEST MEDIUM
The Read	Public live diagnosis: "Drop your 3 symptoms and I'll name your state."	Engagement + soft demo	Reel / carousel
What Your ____ Says	Bite-size diagnostic: cravings, 3pm crash, Sunday mood, training response	Reach + framework	Carousel
The Prediction Flex	Nail someone from almost nothing. "Give me your age + crash time, I'll tell you 3 things about your sleep."	Shares (uncanny)	Reel
Receipts of the Read	Screenshots of clients saying "that's exactly what's happening"	Proof of interpretation	Static / carousel
React to DMs	Face-to-camera read of an anonymised message or scorecard result	Trust	Reel
The Autopsy	Calmly dismantle a viral piece of wrong advice for a depleted body	Borrowed reach + authority	Reel
State of the Data	Aggregate scorecard patterns nobody else has ("4 in 10 women this month came back Stress-Stored")	Authority + un-copyable	Carousel
The Scenario	Named-character self-recognition post	Engagement	Static / carousel

These stack: one good idea becomes several of these (see Atomisation).

04 4. The enemy

Give people something to be against. The eat-less-move-more machine. Protocol without interpretation. A brand with an enemy builds a movement, not an audience - people share what they're angry about, and being the calm expert who defends them is a magnetic position.

05 5. The lead mechanic (comment-to-DM, upgraded)

The giveaway is a personalised micro-read, not a PDF. Comment the keyword → the DM asks 2-3 quick questions → it hands back their likely pattern, the one reason it's happening, and the single thing to change first, then invites them to the scorecard for the full read. ManyChat delivers it (it has Meta's approved messaging access, so it sidesteps the app-review wall); the branded PDF becomes the tailored leave-behind. Full keyword + copy spec: `comment-to-dm-asset-map-v1.md`.

Rule: 1-2 comment-to-DM posts a week, always riding a scenario hook so the post earns the comment in the first place.

06 6. The weekly rhythm (5x/week)

A starting grid. E = engagement-first (no link, earn comments/saves), C = click/lead.

DAY	FORMAT	JOB	MEDIUM
Mon	The Read	E	Reel / carousel
Tue	What Your ____ Says	E	Carousel
Wed	The Scenario or The Autopsy	E	Static / reel
Thu	Receipts or React to DMs	E (proof)	Reel
Fri	Comment-to-DM personalised read or State of the Data	C	Static + DM

Stories run alongside daily: the “which state are you” mini-quiz, polls, and behind-the-scenes reads. Appointment content: The Read is always Monday, so the audience learns to show up.

07 7. Atomisation (volume without more thinking)

One idea → four pieces + a lead magnet: - The insight becomes a reel (face to camera), - the framework becomes a carousel (saveable), - the question becomes a Stories quiz, - the diagnosis becomes a comment-to-DM post, - and the takeaway becomes the tailored PDF in the DM.

Think in ideas, not posts. One strong read should feed most of a week.

08 8. Face, format, reach

- Get Kade on camera. Talking-head reels of you reading a situation out loud build you as the authority, which is the real asset. Static cards can't build a person.
- Scale with HeyGen so filming isn't a daily bottleneck.
- Lean carousels (saves) + reels (reach). Retire the static-card monotony; static is for proof and quotes, not the whole feed.

09 9. Turn engagement into an ad engine

Everyone who comments a keyword or engages becomes a warm custom audience. Retarget them with the Challenge. Free organic reach quietly becomes cheap paid conversion, and the organic + paid funnels feed each other instead of running separately.

10 10. First three plays to test (next 2-3 weeks)

Pick the fastest, highest-leverage, because all three use the engine and funnel you already have:

1. The Read - the signature demo, run weekly.
2. State of the Data - your own scorecard patterns as content.
3. The personalised comment-to-DM read - the upgraded lead mechanic.

Run them for 2-3 weeks against the current style. Let the numbers pick the winners, then double down.

11 11. What we measure

Comments + saves + shares (real engagement), DM keyword captures, scorecard starts, and the earliest broken gate in the reach → save → profile → scorecard path. Not likes. We are buying self-recognition and captured leads, not applause.

12 12. What it needs (build dependencies)

- Voice-of-customer swipe file - mine real phrases from scorecard answers + DMs. (Buildable on our side.)
- Personalised-read DM flows in ManyChat - Kade builds, spec provided.
- Leads webhook - ManyChat → dashboard, leads tagged by keyword. (Buildable on our side.)
- Reels / face - Kade films, or HeyGen scales it.

- Free lead magnets - the 5 tailored one-pagers as leave-behinds (`comment-to-dm-asset-map-v1.md`).

The whole engine in one line: stop broadcasting information, start demonstrating that you can read the person the industry has given up on. That is the only thing that makes Body Recode different in the feed - so make it the entire show.
